ANNABLE LEE.

It was many and many a year ago,
In a kingdom by the sea,
That a maiden there lived, whom you may know,
By the name of Annable Lee;
And this maiden she lived with no other thought
Than to love and be lored by me.

I was a child and she was a child,
In this kingdom by the sea;
But we lored with a love that was more than love—
I and my Annable Lee,
With a love that the winged seraphs in Heaven,
Coveted her and me.

And this was the reason that, long ago,
In this kingdom by the sea,
A wind blew out of a cloud, chilling
My beautiful Annable Lee;
So that her high-born kinsman came
And bore her away from me,
To shut her up in a sepulcher,
In this kingdom by the sea.

The angels, not half so happy in Heaven,
Were envying her and me:
Yes! that was the reason (as all men know,
In this kingdom by the sea,)
That the wind came out of the cloud by night,
Chilling my Annable Lee.

But our love it was stronger by far than the love
Of those who were older than we—
Of many far wiser than we;
And neither the angels in heaven above,
Nor the demons down under the sea,
Can ever dissever my soul from the soul
Of the beautiful Annable Lee.

For the moon never beams without bringing me dreams
Of the beautiful Annable Lee;
And the stars never rise but I feel the bright eyes
Of the beautiful Annable Lee;
And so all the night-tide I lie down by the side
Of my darling—my darling—my life and my bride,
In the sepulcher there by the sea,
In her tomb by the sounding sea.

BALTIMORE, MD.

Jan. 8, 1883.

ED SOUTH KENTUCKIAN!

Please allot space in the SOUTH KENTUCKIAN for a few items from this city.

Baltimore is now estimated to contain 400,000 inhabitants. It has four medical schools, the principal ones are the College of Physicians and Surgeons and University of Maryland. I am a student of the former school and have the pleasure of the acquaintance of Dr. J. Arden Southall of your city, who also attends lectures at the same school. The Commencement day of the College of Physicians and Surgeons will be on March 1st. Hon. Dan'l Voorhees of Indiana will be the orator of the occasion.

Baltimore is truly the "Monumental" city, and among its monuments we notice the monument of George Washington, which is 280 feet above tide level and 212 feet above terra firma. It is certainly a magnificent tribute to the memory of the "father of his country." Then there is the monument of Thos. Wildy and Battle monument and many others.

The principal parks of the city, are Druid Hill, Patterson, and Riversides. Druid Hill park is the largest and finest, containing 800 acres, situated in the north western suburbs of the city. The main entrance to the park is on Madison Avenue. Upon entering the park you behold beautiful lakes, forests and fountains, and continuing your walk you come to the Mansion House where refreshments are kept and lunch served. Not far from the Mansion House you come to the "Maryland Building" which contains a perfect museum of every reptile, fowl, fish, sea shell, mineral and wood in the Union.

Among the fine public institutions are the Peabody Institute and Maryland Historical Society building. As to the grand imposing buildings of this city I might mention, the City Hall, which cost near $2,330,000 for its erection, situated nearly in the centre of the city, the Battle and Ohio building, Barnum's Hotel, Carrollton Hotel, City College, the John Hopkins Hospital, Excelsior Clothing House, Hoen Building, and many more.

The principal theatres are the Academy of Music, Ford's, Albaugh's Holliday St., theatre, the Monumental and Kelly's Front St., theatres. The Dime Museum on Baltimore street is also a great place for pleasure seekers.

The principal hospitals are, the City Hospital and Woman's Hospital, which are under the control of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, St. Joseph's, Marine and University Hospitals.

As to churches, by far the majority are Catholic. The number of church members is about 100,000 of which 100,000 are Catholic. The finest church in the city is Mt. Vernou church situated on Monument street near Washington's monument.

Baltimore is now enjoying an epidemic of small pox. The number of deaths from that disease the past week was about 90. One of our fellow students, Mr. Silas P. Fairman, of Pennsylvania, died of that disease on the second inst. Special efforts are being made by the Board of Health to stamp out the disease. Ninety physicians have been appointed to vaccinate every person living in the city. It is hoped that, after the vaccination will have had time to operate, the disease will abate.

Yours most respectfully,
HOBT. E. L. HALL,
of Missouri

His Pa Goes Calling.

Puck's Son.

Say, you are getting too stuffed up any, said the groceryman to the bad boy, as he pushed him into the corner by the molasses barrels and took him by the neck and choked him till his eyes stuck out. You have driven away several of my best customers, and now do fotmad you, I am going to have your life, and he took up a cheese knife and began to sharpen it on his boot.

What's the—gurgle—matter? asked the choking boy, as the grocery man's fingers let up on the boy's throat a little, so he could speak. I haint done anthiu.

Didn't you hang up that dead grey tom cat by the heels in front of my store, with the rabbits I had for sale? I didn't notice it until the minister called me out in front of the store, and pointing to the rabbits, asked me what good fat cats were selling for. By crimus, this thing has got to stop. You have got to move out of this ward or I will.

The boy got his breath and said it wasn't him that put the cat up there. He said it was the policeman, and he and his chum saw him do it, and he just come in to tell the grocery man about it, and before he could speak he had his neck nearly pulled off. The boy began to cry, and the grocery man told him he was only joking, and gave him a box of sardines and they made up. Then he asked the boy how his pa put in his New Years, and the boy sighed and said:

We had a sad time at our house New Years. Pa insisted on making calls, and ma and me tried to prevent it, but he said he was of age, and guessed he could make calls if he wanted to, so he looked at the morning paper and got the names of all the places where they were going to receive, and he turned his paper collar, and changed ends with his cuffs, and put some arnica on his handkerchief, and started out. Ma told him not to drink anything and he said he wouldn't, but he did. He was full the third place he went to. O, so full. Some men can get full and not show it, but when pa gets full, he gets so full his back teeth float, and the liquor crowds his eyes out, and his mouth gets loose and wiggles all over his face, and he has gibs all the time, and the perspiration just oozes out of him, and his face gets red, and he walks so wide. O, he disgraced us all. At one place he wished the hired girl a happy new year more than twenty times, and hung his hat on her elbow, and tried to put on a rubber ball mat for his over-shoes. At another place he walked upon a lady's train, and carried away a card basket full of bananas and oranges. Ma wanted my chum and me to follow pa and bring him home, and about dark we found him in the door yard of a house, where they have statutes in front of the house, and he grabbed me by the arm and mistook me for another caller, and and insisted on introducing me to a marble statue without any clothes on. He said it was a friend of his, and it was a winter picnic. He hung his hat on an evergreen, and put his overcoat on the iron fence, and I was so mortified I almost cried. My chum said if his pa made such a circus of himself, he would send boy him. That gave me an idea, and when we got pa most home I went and got a paper box covered with red papor, so it looked just like a brick, and a bottle of tomato catsup, and when we got pa on the steps at home I hit him with the paper brick, and my chum squirted the catsup on his head, and we demanded his money, and then he yelled murder, and we lit out, and ma and the minister, who was making a call on her, all the afternoon, they came to the door and pulled pa in. He said he had been attacked by a band of robbers, and they knocked his brains out, but he whipped them, and then ma saw the catsup brains oozing out of his head, and she screamed, and the minister said, 'Good heavens, he is murdered,' and just then I came in the back door and they sent me after the doctor, and they put pa on the lounge, and tied up his head with a towel to keep his brains in, and pa began to snore, and when the doctor came in it took them half an hour to wake him, and then he was awful sick to his stummick, and ma asked the doctor if he would live, and the doctor analyzed the catsup and smelled of it and told ma he would be all right if he had a little Worcester sauce to put on with the catsup, and when he said pa would pull through all right ma looked awful sad. Then pa opened his eyes and saw the minister and said that was one of the robbers that jumped on him, and he wanted to whip the minister, but the doctor held pa's arms and ma sat on his legs, and the minister said he had some other calls to make, and he wished ma a happy new year in the hall as much as fifteen minutes. His happy now year to ma is most as long as his prayers. Well, we got pa to bed, and when we undressed him we found nine napkins in the bosom of his vest, that he had picked up at the places where he had called. He is all right this morning, but he says it is the last time he will drink coffee when he makes New Years calls.

Well, then, you didn't have much fun yourself on New Years. That's too bad, said the groceryman, as he looked at the sad eyed youth. But you look hard. If you were old enough I should say you had been drunk, your eyes are so red.

Didn't have any fun, eh? Well, I wish I had as many dollars as I had fun. You see, after pa got to sleep ma wanted me and my chum to go to the houses that pa had called at and return the napkins he had kleptomaniaced, so we dressed up and went. The first house we called at the girls were sort of demoralized. I don't know as I ever saw a girl drunk, but these girls acted queer. The callers had stopped coming, and the girls were drinking something out of shaving cups that looked like lather, and they said it was eggnog. They laffed and kicked up their heels when nor a circus, and their collars got unpinned and their faces was red, and they put their arms around me and my chum and hugged us, and asked us if we didn't want some of the custard. You'd ought to have seen me and my chum drink that lather. It looked like soap suds with antmalg in it, but by gosh, it got in its work sudden. At first I was afraid when the girls hugged me, but after I had drank a eggnog I wasn't afraid no more, and I hugged a girl so hard she catched her breath and panted and said, O, don't. Then I kissed her, and she is a great big girl, bigger n me, and she didn't care. Say, did you ever kiss a girl full of eggnog? If you didn't it would break up your grocery business. You would want to waller in bliss instead of selling mackerel. My chum ain't no slouch either. He was sliding in a stuffed chair holding another new years girl, and I could hear him kiss her so it sounded like a rotter scraping on hare ground. Then the girl's pa came in and said he guessed it was time to close the place unless they had a license to an all night house, and me and my chum went out. But wasn't we sick when we got out doors. O, it seemed as though the pegs in my boots was the only thing that kept them down, and my chum he like to dide. He had been to dinner and supper and I had only been skating all day, so he had more to contend with than I did. O, my but that lets me out on eggnog. I don't know how I got home, but I got in bed with pa, because ma was called away on one of her professional engagements. I had heard pa blame ma about her sore feet, so I got a piece of ice about as big as a raisin box just exactly like one of ma's feet, and I laid it thru in the small of pa's back. I couldn't help laffing, but pretty soon pa began to squirm and so said, 'Why'n 'ell don't you warm them feet before you come to bed,' and then he hauled back his leg and kicked me clear out in the middle of the floor, and said if he married again he would marry a woman who had lost both feet in a railroad accident. Then I put the ice back in the bed with pa and went to my room, and in the morning pa said he sweat more'n a pail full in the night. Well, you must excuse me. I have an engagement to shovel snow off of the sidewalk. But before I go let me advise you not to drink eggnog, and don't sell tomcats for rabbits, and he got out the door just in time to miss the rutabaga that the grocery man threw at him.

GARRETTSBURG.

Protracted Meeting—O. O. H. Hut Instituted—Social Items—The Cold Spell.

BY CAMILLE.

On last Sunday night Rev. J. W. Bigham commenced a protracted meeting at the Methodist church of this place. He as yet has no one to assist him but he is full of zeal and has enlisted in his present work with an earnestness and determination that will doubtless win for him much success.

Up to this writing no accessions have been made to the church.

The young men of LaFayette are now considerably excited over the recent organization, in their midst, of the society, known as the "Oriental Order of Humility."

To Mr. A. E. Kruse, of Evansville, Ind., belongs the honor of introducing this new order into our town, and so grand and lofty is its object, so manifold its advantages, that already the greater portion of our young men have become initiated into the mystic rites of Humility.

This noble order is built on a firm foundation which will withstand all difficulties; no storms of adversity or misfortune can ever undermine it: even now it is assuming gigantic proportions and ere many more months shall have passed away it is to be hoped that every man, old and young, within the reach of its benign influence may be led into its sacred fold.

As a few of the young ladies of LaFayette are anxious to enter the ranks of the disciples of Humility, your correspondent would suggest that the doors of our society be thrown open for the admittance of the fair sex.

Mr. W. I. Frazer, of this place, left a few days ago, on a business trip to Chicago. He will return in the course of a week or two.

Mr. P. P. Fuqua, who has, since Christmas been located in Hopkinsville in the interest of the fruit tree business, recently spent a short while with relatives of our town.

The physicians report a good many cases of serious illness throughout the country and they are quite busy in consequence thereof.

The people of LaFayette took advantage of the recent cold spell and filled their ice houses with nice clear ice from 1 to 4 inches thick. The prospect for ice cream and delicious mint julips next summer is now quite favorable.

Having used Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup in my family for the last three years, I find it is the best preparation I have ever used for Coughs and Colds giving almost immediate relief. B. Walker, Gen'l Com. Merchants, 118 Light St., Balto., Md.

I raised seven boys, said an Arkansaw man; and all but one was killed. Tom was killed by his uncle. Ned was killed by Ike, Ike was blowed up, Sam was killed by a wild hog, and Nat was flung by a horse and killed.

What is your other son's name?

Lige, and he was as good a boy as ever lived, and smart! That boy could write his name anywhar, and he could read this big snow print in.

And so they were all killed but Lige?

Yes said the old man with a sorrowful sigh.

And what became of Lige?

Why, sir, the Governor took a fool notion and wouldn't pardon him, and he was hung.—Arkansaw Traveler.

Two very uncommon names are before the people of Kentucky for gubernatorial honors to-wit: Jones for Governor, and Smith for Lieutenant Governor. Should they or either of them be elected, it will be some time before the people would familiar-

Keeping Tally of Kisses.

There is a young man in the county of Wayne, State of Michigan, who is going to be terribly astonished before the year 1883 is more than a month old, says the Detroit Free Press. The law will reach out and clasp his throat just above the Adam's apple and he will get such a sticking up and mopping around that he will seem to have his heels beating a tattoo on the back of his neck.

They were in to see a lawyer yesterday—Mary Ann and her mother. Mary Ann was a little embarrassed, but the old woman was calmness itself. When they spoke about a breach of promise case, the lawyer asked:

What evidence have you got?

Mary Ann, produce the letters, commanded the mother, and the girl took the cover off a willow basket, and remarked that she thought 927 letters would do to begin on. The other 651 would be produced as soon as the case was fairly before the court.

And outside of these letters? queried the lawyer.

Mary Ann, produce your diary," said the mother. "Now turn to the heading of 'Promises' and tell him how many times this marriage business was talked over.

The footing is 214 times," answered the girl.

Now turn to the head of 'Darling' and give us the number of times he has applied the term to you.

If I have figured right the total is 9,254 times.

I guess you counted pretty straight for you are good in arithmetic. Now turn to the heading of 'Woodbine Cottage' and tell us how many times he has talked of such a home for you after marriage.

The footing is 1,305 times.

Very well. This lawyer wants to be sure that we've got a case. How many times has Charles Henry said he would die for you?

Three hundred and fifty," answered the girl, as she turned over a leaf.

How many times has he called you an angel?

Over 11,000.

How about squeezing hands.

Over 318,000 squeezes.

And kisses.

Nearly 417,000.

There's our case!" said the mother, as she deposited the basket and flung in the lawyer's table. "Look over the documents; and if you want anything further I can bring in a dozen neighbors to swear to facts. We sue for $10,000 damages, and we don't settle for less than an eighty-acre farm, with buildings in good repair. We'll call again next week. Good-day, sir.

Swindlers Abroad.

If any one has represented that we are in any way interested in any bogus bitters or stuff with the word "Hop" in their name, cheating honest folks, or that we will pay any of their bills or debts, they are frauds and swindlers and the victims should punish them. We deal in and pay only the bills for the genuine Hop Bitters, the purest and best medicine on earth.

A New and Valuable Book.

For more than a year past the Historical Publishing Company of St. Louis, Mo., with an enterprise almost equal to Bennett's of the New York Herald, has had the well known author, Mr. J. W. Buel, traveling through Russia and the frozen regions of Siberia, to study and write upon the institutions of those countries. The results of the expedition have just been published in "RUSSIAN NIHILISM AND EXILE LIFE IN SIBERIA," a volume of 600 large pages and over 200 illustrations, forming one of the most thrilling and valuable records of travel and adventure the world has ever known. This work resembles accounts of the adventures and discoveries of Livingstone and Stanley in Central Africa, but it surpasses even these in many respects. Mr. Buel went to Russia under the sanction of our Government, carrying with him letters of recommendation from the State Department and influential Government officials, which secured him admission to the highest diplomatic circles in Russia, and gave him access to the State Records, by which means he obtained a vast amount of information never before made public. His travels and adventures in Siberia are of the most thrilling character. He thoroughly investigated Nihilism, and furnishes a complete record of the astounding deeds of that terrible secret organization which has shaken the throne of Russia to its center.

The book is a valuable edition to American literature, and we understand that the sales are unprecedently large. It is the sort of book to be read around the winter fireside. It is sold only by subscription, and live agents should make haste to secure their outfits. See advertisement elsewhere in this paper.

Too late to whet the sword the trumpet sounds to draw it. But never too late to whet your appetite by taking Kidney Wort, restoring health and making yourself a well, strong, hearty man. It is unequalled as a remedy for all liver, bowels and kidney diseases. All druggists keep and recommend it.

A young man who wanted to teach school in Kansas could not tell horizontal from perpendicular, but the committee overlooked that as the members had been that way themselves.

Why in it that so many reliable physicians use Thorton's Buchu in their regular practice? Because for all Kidney complaints it is known to be Judicious Advertising.

While perhaps there is no department of business in which more money is invested annually than advertising, it is equally true that no investments are more frequently made with less judgement in less adaptation of wise means to accomplish desired ends. With a majority of business men, advertising is simply making public a desire on their part for customers for the particular line of business in which they are engaged. They give the matter a little thought or consideration and usually they are ready victims to the checky solicitor for alleged newspapers made up of "patent places" or "patient insides," but wholly without standing among the real newspapers of the country, or he may be the representative of humbug cards, hotel registers, or some one of the hundreds of schemes to take advantage of the general but uneducated belief that he who would do business must advertise and that one kind of an advertisement is as valuable as another. Vast fortunes have been made suddenly by advertising, and the importance of advertising is generally conceded. Few men are now engaged in business. But the number of those who study advertising as they study the markets and other details of their trade, is very small indeed. The consequence is thousands of dollars are spent every year in towns and cities of any commercial pretentions whatever, for circulars, dodgers, posters, Cheap John newspapers, and Peter Funk advertising schemes, which do not really benefit the advertisers in the least, because they have not given the matter any study and have accepted the assurances of the brazen solicitors who promise all things for the smallest consideration.

A prudent advertiser looks over the situation carefully before making up his mind as to how or when he will advertis. He will first take into consideration the character of the business he is in next, the class of customers he has or desires to reach; thirdly, the best means to reach them, and keep constantly before their minds his ability to meet their wants, and his willingness to do so on honorable terms and for reasonable profits. Advertisements, to be profitable, must be persistent and systematic. Experience has demonstrated this beyond all controversy. It may be this scrutiny will convince him that circular letters will do the business; that hand-bills or dodgers will reach the class aimed at; or what is more likely, a good notice in a newspaper with a well established reputation for circulation and influence, will bring the notice of the people whose particular attention he desires to secure, his store and stock. The latter method is persistent. Every day his appeals are under the eyes of those who can't live without reading the current news, and these appeals usually suggest the purchase of the goods advertised or direct attention to the place where they may be had by those who need them.

Hand bills, dodgers, schemes of all kinds have their advantages, but none of them can compare with the persistent appeals of a showy advertisement in a good newspaper. The dodgers usually find their way into the gutter. Posters remain on the walls but a day or two and are supplanted or covered over by rival posters, but a good advertisement in a reliable newspaper can not be displaced or go unheeded.

Advertising of itself will not command business, and no one need think it will. It is folly to advertise what will or can't be performed. Any man who does this commits a serious mistake. But the conspicuous and persistent advertisement of legitimate and honorable trade never fails to remunerate those who so invest a portion of their profits.—Evansville Journal.

Why She Stopped Her Paper.

She came bouncing through the sanctum door like a cannon ball, and without pausing to say "How d'ye do?" she brought her umbrella down with a mighty crash and shouted:

"I want you to stop my paper."

"All right, madam."

"Stop it right off, too," she persisted whacking the umbrella again, "for I've waited long enough for you to do the square thing."

She quieted down for a moment as we ran our finger down the list of names, and when we reached hers and scratched it out she said:

"There! Now, maybe you'll do as you'd oughter after this, and not slight a woman because she's poor. Some rich folks happen to have a little red headed, bandy-legged, squint eyed whezzy squawler born to them you puff it to the skies, you make it out an angel; but when poor people have a baby, you don't say a word about it even if it is the squarest tool, black-eyed-haired, biggest-headed, nobbiest little kid that ever kept a woman awake at night. That's what is the matter."

And she dashed out as rapidly as she came in.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 15, '83.

The question whether we are to have any forward step in the direction of tariff reform and tax reduction by the next Congress, is still an open one, but the chances are decidedly against it. In spite of all the confident talk and promise of the Ways and Means Committee early in the session, things at this stage look a little squally. The tariff bill reported from the Senate Committee on Finance differs very materially from that of the Ways and Means Committee, and both are at variance with the recommendations of the Tariff Commission, while all three fail to conform to the ideas, either of free traders or protectionists, and none of them appear entirely satisfactory to those who believe in moderate and progressive measures of revenue reform. When to the existing muddle are added the amendments of the House to the Ways and Means Committee bill, and the general confusion of ideas which will be created by the attempt to reconcile the provisions of both measures, it needs more than ordinary faith in Congressional industry and discretion to expect any result whatever from such chaotic materials. It is interesting to occasionally happen around the east side of the House wing in view of the Ways and Means Committee room. One can tell to a nicety what the committee is doing by the class of visitors. One day the barbed wire makers are on hand in force, button-hole lug members as they pass in and out; another day the steel fall lobby monopolizes most of the space; then the jute butt fellowers show up, and they are followed in turn by the distillers and their hired men. The tin men, the sugar refiners, the Standard oil company lobby, the plate glass manufacturers, the tobacco men, and representatives of every other industry take their turn, and they are always on the alert. The button-holers of the poor tortured members have suffered terribly from the train. Recently the shipbuilders have joined the throng and pervaded the entire south end of the building.

It appears that the surprise and satisfaction with which many advocates of tariff reform greeted the report of the Tariff Commission was premature. Further and more minute discovery discloses that in many items where there are apparent recommendations of important reductions, the report really recommends higher duties. These insidious proposals are wrapped up in language which can only be understood by experts, but fortunately experts have not been wanting to expose their real nature. And if this discovery were not enough to vitiate the report, the Ways and Means Committee of the House, in revising the schedules proposed by the Commission, is seizing the opportunity to recommend higher duties in still further particulars. The general impression now is that the Commission's report could not be adopted as it stands without doing more harm than good, and that what little good there is in it will be found eliminated by the time the modifications of the Ways and Means Committee are completed. It is becoming more and more apparent every day that it will remain for the next Congress, with its Democratic majority, to effect a reform of the tariff that will be something more than a sham. The work of the Tariff Commission has instilled all the predictions made on the score of its legislative usefulness, while it has also belied the hopes of its friends as to its influences in giving greater stability to the existing system of import duties. But the creation and work of the Commission has had one good result—that of forcing the absurdities of tariff legislation on the attention of the people, and compelling discussion which will inevitably have the effect of leading to a more radical revision than before the appointment of the commission was deemed possible. Apropos of this tariff subject I am constrained to quote a letter recently received by me Hon. S. S. Cox. It is in the nature of an appeal for an infant industry yet unborn, but for which the reconvenient is soon expected. Mr. Cox will doubtless see to it that in the great work of tariff revision, the plaintive voice is not drowned out by the bawling at Judge Kelly's more lusty infants: "I am going into the business of raising pineapples and other tropical fruits in hot-houses, and I want protection against the pauper labor of the West Indies for my infant industry. I purpose employing two small boys, and American labor must be protected, even if pineapples cost five dollars apiece. Don't you forget it! Yours, C. Chowder Smith, a Protectionist."

The matter of the enormous fees paid to Mr. George Bliss, attorney in the Star-route cases, has attracted as much attention and excited so much comment that an inquiry into it has been started in the House. Up to this time Mr. Bliss has drawn over $38,000, or a little more than $36,000 a year. This is larger pay than any of the eminent lawyers on the other side get—much more than the Attorney-General and wholly disproportionate to the value of the services rendered. Mr. Bliss is not much of a lawyer and not much of a man in any respect, but he happens to have been a chum of "Chet" Arthur when the latter was a ward politician in New York, and hence his employment at such big figures. There is a strong notion that he is not trying very hard to hurt anybody by the prosecution, but is making believe as hard as he can, and prolonging the cases to the utmost—at $100 per day.

A Washington man the other day sent some superannuated household effects down to an auction room to be sold. Among them was an old clock that went for 80 cents. It was bought by a second hand furniture dealer—of the Israelitish persuasion—and exposed for sale. A day or two afterwards the original owner of the clock came down and without revealing himself asked to see some old clocks. The Israelite showed him stock, and among them was the identical one that had belonged to his customer. He asked the price which was two dollars. This he cheerfully paid. Then taking the front of it out he trundled out two $500 notes, which he had hidden there and forgotten. The Israelite's wrath and despair may be imagined; he wept and tore his

The Quincy House, of Quincy, Ills, was burned last Friday. No loss of life, but the property destroyed, was valued at $300,000, with but little insurance.

Tom L. Cannon, the sprightly young editor of the State Sentinel, is out as a candidate for legislative honors in Henderson county. We would like to see him elected.

Representative Goldos, of Ohio, has introduced a bill to allow newspapers to be sent free through the mails to actual subscribers. The postage is now two cents per pound.

Prince Jerome Bonaparte issued a manifesto in Paris last week in favor of himself which created intense excitement. Bonaparte was arrested and several of his friends will probably be banished from France for aiding him.

The Second Congressional district will be entitled to 64 votes in the State convention, divided as follows:

Christian, 9.	Hopkins, 7.
Hayloss, 13.	McLean, 4.
Hancock, 3.	Webster, 5.
Henderson, 11.	Union, 10.

Mr. C. C. Givens, who published the Sebree Sunbeam for a year, has become local editor of the State Sentinel, at Henderson. He is a young man of talent and fitness for journalistic work and we welcome him cordially into the ranks of the quill driving fraternity.

John F. Porter, known in history as "Bowie Knife" Porter, is living on a farm in Waukesha county, Wisconsin, and is now 63 years old. In 1860, while a member of Congress, he accepted a challenge from Gen Roger A. Pryor, of Virginia, and a duel bowie-knives, at four feet, as the weapons. Pryor refused to fight with bowie-knives and Porter was arrested and bound over to keep the peace and was soon afterwards known

The Convention.

The Covington Commonwealth, with its characteristic perveseness, says the convention was called in May by the partisans of Mr. Knott in opposition to the interests of every other candidate for the nomination for Governor. Our contemporary is inconsistent. It is generally the staunch advocate of fair play and upright motives in politics. Mr. Knott is at his post of duty in Washington, and to hold a convention in February, as some of Col. Jones' friends favored, would have been to take an unfair and unmanly advantage, which an advocate of fair play ought to scorn to take. Col. Jones has been a candidate for Governor for years, and during the last five years he has probably canvassed every part of the State. Mr. Knott was called out by the voice of the people a few months ago He threw his energies into the late Congressional campaign, doing valiant service in the close districts, and he has canvassed but little of the territory of the State. His term in Congress does not expire until March 4th, and he will then have a little over two months to canvass 117 counties. It was nothing but right that he should have been given a little time, and the very fact that Col. Jones' followers are dissatisfied, shows that they are not disposed to be actuated by a spirit of fairness. It would have been commendable in Col. Jones if he had come forward and said to the committee "I do not desire to take advantage of an absent competitor, who is discharging his duty elsewhere, and, while I desire an early convention, in justice to Mr. Knott let it be held at the time his friends think best." He did not do this, but we find him in Louisville on the day it was called, sore and disappointed at the result, and his organ at Covington grumbling and charging that Col. Jones has not been treated fairly. The Commonwealth is mistaken when it says the date chosen was "adverse to the interests of every other candidate." Judge Owsley's friends, disposed to do the fair thing, co-operated with Mr Knott's and voted for a late convention, and the truth of the whole business is, that only two votes were cast against the date settled upon. We know not what effect this action of Owsley's friends produced in other sections of the State, but the effect here will likely be that he will be given second instructions in Christian, a strong Knott county. Our Covington contemporary will do Col. Jones harm by such arguments as it adduces in this instance, and if Col. Jones ever expects to be elected Governor, we would suggest that his friends muzzle him and advise him to muzzle his friends.

NEW SENATORS.

The Kansas Republicans have re-elected Senator Plumb.

The Democrats of Delaware have re-elected Senator Saulsbury.

The Democrats of North Carolina, have re-elected Senator Ransom.

Hon. W. P. Frye, Rep., has been re-elected to the Senate from Maine.

Gov. Shelby M. Cullom, Rep., has been elected to succeed David Davis as United States Senator from Illinois.

Congressmen John E. Kenna has been elected by the West Virginia Democrats to the Senate of the United States.

Hon. A. H. Garland, Dem., has been re-elected to the Senate from Arkansas. His election was almost unanimous.

Hon. Isham G. Harris, Dem., was re-elected as his own successor in the U. S. Senate, by the Legislature of Tennessee, on the first ballot, last week.

Geo. F. Hoar, Rep., has been re elected as U. S. Senator from Massachusetts. It is said that his election was brought about by the forgory of Congressman Crapo's name to a dispatch telling his followers to vote for Hoar.

Dr. Mudd, who set Booth's leg the night he assassinated President Lincoln and who was sent to prison for life as a conspirator, but subsequently pardoned, died in Charles county, Maryland, a few days since. He was the last survivor of those convicted for complicity in the assassination conspiracy.

Gebhardt, Mrs. Langtry's mash, who is following her over the country, cursed a St. Louis reporter for publishing a diagram of their respective rooms in the hotel and was in turn challenged by the journalist. The duel would have been fought but Lily made Freddy promise to ignore the challenge for her sake.

The State Journal, published at Col. Jones' home, is mad because the State Convention was not called for Feb. 22 and held before Mr. Knott returned from Washington. The reason given is that the farmers can't attend in May. No farmer who can't afford to pay a hand three or four dollars a week, to take his place while he goes to Louisville to help nominate Knott, is likely to be appointed a delegate.

The Marquis of Lorne, Queen Victoria's son-in-law and his wife the Princess Louise were in Kentucky last week. They passed through the blue grass region on their way to Richmond, Va. It is said that while they were in Richmond the Princess wanted to take a bath and though the bath-tub was nice and clean she wouldn't bathe in it because it was not a new one and a new one had to

AND SO FORTH.

All this talk about an earthquake last week is positively shocking.

During her first week in Chicago, Mrs. Langtry took in $14,500 and Freddy Gebhardt.

Jerome's friends have Bonaparte of the blame for issuing the manifesto in behalf of the Prince.

Is there no way to force Gov Blackburn to publish a complete list of the "Colonels on his staff?"

W. H. Vanderbilt and the writer are together worth $260,000,000. Mr. Vanderbilt owns most of the sum.

The Marquis of Lorne would not suffer himself to be interviewed at Louisville, and wouldn't even see the "horrid reportahs."

All subscriptions sent to the SOUTH KENTUCKIAN must be accompanied by $1 50, not necessarily for publication, but as an evidence of good faith.

Col. Cunningham, a St. Louis reporter challenged, Gebhardt to fight a duel and Padman, of the Courier-Journal, thinks he should have challenged him to a spelling match.

The Evansville Journal says there were 262 failures in the United States last week. As Tom Cannon failed in an attempt to get off a joke on us, the number of failures may be increased to 263.

The Sunday Argus is running its jokes into the ground when it says, "The deepest coal mine in America is said to be at Pottsville, Pa. Happy thought: The Republican party can use it for a house of refuge in 1884."

When a lover reaches the interrogation point, his sweetheart usually answers with an exclamation.—Breckenridge News.

Some times she answers with a period and tells him he needn't color her again.

The wife of Dr. Tanner, the faster sued for and obtained a divorce because her husband wanted to experiment upon her and see what effect a turnip diet would have on her. It caused something to "turn up," as Mr. Mleawber would say.

The Courier-Journal has published the pictures of the "Great Statesmen," the "Great Capitalists," the "Great Actors," the "Great Authors," and the "Great Preachers." When it gets ready tur the "Great Liars" we would like to make some nominations.

Cope Snapp, another of the Louisville defaulting officials has been taken in out of the wintry weather He thought he had a suit Snapp but he found he was not able to Cope successfully with the law and so confessed that he got $10,000 as his share.

Cecil Edwards Cantrill, infant son of Lieut. Gov. James E. Cantrill, was on yesterday commissioned by Governor L. P. Blackburn a Colonel on his staff—Yeoman.

It seems that unborn infants alone are exempt from this colonel business.

On the 10th inst. the Milwaukee hotel holocaust occurred, in which $500,000 worth of property and the lives of 100 persons were lost. Four days later the Planter's House, of St Louis, took fire in the store room and kitchen and the exciting scenes and events of the Milwaukee horror were repeated. The engines were on the grounds in fifty seconds after the alarm was given and as the hotel was well provided with fire escape all of the guests got out safe, though many of them had to rush out without putting on their clothes. All of the servants but three escaped, these lost their lives before they could get out The fire was extinguished before it reached the hotel proper. These fires coming in the same week should put people to thinking on the subject of "death traps." The difference was manifest in the two hotels. One was not provided with fire escapes and a hundred of the occupants perished while the other was, and nearly all escaped. The portion of the St. Louis hotel where the fire broke out was also deficient in this respect and the result was three lives were lost. People should be cautious about jeopardizing their lives by stopping in hotels without means of escape in case of fires. Too many lives have already been sacrificed in this way, and the public should not patronize hotels and theatres that are veritable "death traps."

Hon. Oscar Turner, the Independent Congressman from the First Kentucky district, has published a boastful circular denouncing his opponents and flattering his supporters in his last race. As usual he was very badly (?) treated and triumphed (?) over great and malignant opposition. He also takes occasion to thank, by name, the few papers in the State that spoke encouragingly of his race against the Democratic candidate last fall. Some of his constituents will probably be gratified to learn that he announces that he will act with the Democrats in the next Congress.

Our sweet little Corrie has left us.

"She budded on earth
To bloom in heaven"

She was one of the "Saved" or "elect of God" sent to cheer our hearts with smiles of love then though Christ ascended to her shining home, where she now lovingly says "Come" "To purer joys and higher life." Around her bedside we learned many beautiful lessons of trust, love and submission to God's will. Such was her mission on earth. Let us heed the lesson and though afflicted and bereft, the response is 'God knows Why."

May Heaven's richest consolations be applied to the wounded, bleeding hearts and may each feel that she is at the beautiful gate, "Waiting and Watching for me."

LOUISVILLE MARKET.

The Farmer's Home Journal, of the 13th, says: "There has been a decided increase of animation in the market throughout the week. Dark and heavy tobaccos have advanced fully fifty cents per cwt, on lugs, and long leaf has held its own. Good to fine burleys have advanced from $1 50 to $4 per cwt., while the lower grades of leaf have been firm, with an advance of from twenty-five to seventy-five cents Burley lugs have held their own without material advance over last week's quotation. We note sales Thursday, of new line burley, at $19 75 and 20 —the latter figure being the highest of the season to date.

OWENSBORO MARKET.

The market continues bright and cheerful, all tobacco offered bringing the same good prices that have characterized the market the whole of this season. The farmers are well pleased and as the buyers are getting a good quality of tobacco, they too seem satisfied.—Messenger.

Farmers and others desiring a genteel, lucrative agency business, by which $5 to $20. a day can be earned, send address at once, on postal, to H. C. WILKINSON & Co., 195 and 197 Fulton Street, New York.

are never imitated or counterfeited. This is especially true of a family medicine, and it is positive proof that the remedy imitated is of the highest value. As soon as it had been tested and proved by the whole world that Hop Bitters was the purest, best and most valuable family medicine on earth, many imitations sprung up and began to steal the notices which the press and people of the country had expressed the merits of H. B., and in every way trying to induce suffering invalids to use their stuff instead, expecting to make money on the credit and good name of H. B. Many others started nostrums put up in similar style to H. B., with variously devised names in which the word "Hop" or "Hops" were used in a way to induce people to believe they were the same as Hop Bitters. All such pretended remedies or cures, no matter what their style or name is, and especially those with the word "Hop" or "Hops" in their name or in any way connected with them or their name, are imitation or counterfeits. Beware of them. Touch none of them. Use nothing but genuine "Hop Bitters, with a bunch or cluster of green Hops on the white label. Trust nothing else. More Fire.

The roof of a shed room in the rear and adjoining the SOUTH KENTUCKIAN office caught fire from a spark Friday afternoon, but was quickly extinguished before any harm was done.

At about 8 o'clock Sunday night, just as the congregations at the churches were being dismissed, the cry of "Fire!" was heard on Main street, between Nashville and William. In a moment all was excitement and the congregation at the Baptist church rushed out without waiting for a benediction. The fire was in the rear of S. A. Nance's grocery store and caught from a defective flue. The main building was brick, but the back room was frame with a tin roof. The whole and and interior of the upper story was ablaze by the time the bucket brigade got on hand. A cistern was near by and a line was formed up the back steps and in a few minutes the fire was under control. The patent "squirt-guns" again did excellent service. In a few minutes the fire company was ready for work and quickly saturated not only the smoking building but all the surrounding ones and a number of the lookers-on. The building was the property of M. D. Hoales, and was insured in one of Winfree & Kelly's companies. The loss was about half the value of the frame building, probably $75 or $100. Mr. Nance's loss from moving his goods and from having his furniture ruined by water will probably foot up $200, which is fully insured in one of Callis & Hays' companies.

The fire was in amongst a number of old and combustible buildings and but for the tin roof and the prompt action of the citizens, it might have done a deal of damage before the engine could have been brought out. Once more we take pleasure in commending the Pecrless Fire Co. for the alacrity with which it got to the fire.

A negro girl named Mary Payne, who cooks for Mr. A. W. Pyle's family, caught her clothing on fire while preparing breakfast Sunday morning She immediately rushed from the kitchen into the house with the flames leaping above her head and Mr. Pyle smothered them out. The girl was not much hurt, but Mr. Pyle's hands were pretty badly burned in putting out the burning garments.

Messrs. Crenshaw & Walker have opened up a full stock of Drugs in the stand formerly occupied by Gray & Walker. Dr. Crenshaw comes recommended as a reliable energetic man of business. Dr. Walker is well known to our citizens, having been there some years as the partner of F. M. Gray. They advertise this week in another column. See what they have to say.

Several young ladies were passing up the street in front of Mr. Wm. Cowan's one day last week, when three or four large dogs got to fighting in the street, and fought until they got in amongst the crowd of young ladies. One of them, Miss Sallie Campbell, was so badly frightened that she fainted away on the street, and a doctor had to be sent for to revive her.

Mr. J. M. Hopkins, the enterprising livery man, wishes the public to remember that it will find his one of the best kept stables in the whole country, with the most attentive of hostlers and the best of feed. The three weeks' course of actual business instruction in the Commercial department of South Kentucky College closed last week. The class, composed of about a dozen young men, has made rapid progress under the tuitonage of the efficient teacher, Prof. W. J. Dulin. We were shown the books kept in the banking and commercial departments, and they certainly do great credit to the young gentlemen and their teacher. The next session will begin this week with a new class.

Rev. R. C. Cave has consented to deliver an address for the benefit of the Christian Women's Charity Association on next Friday evening Mr. Cave has promised to speak, at the earnest solicitation of the ladies of the Association, and the people of Hopkinsville may rest assured that they will have an opportunity to hear something good. Mr. Cave is too well known as a scholar and orator to need commendation at our hands. The object for which he has consented to speak is a praiseworthy one, and a full house should greet him. The lecture will be delivered at the Methodist church, and the low price of 25 cents will be charged for the tickets.

MARRIED.

FAXON—ADKERSON: A nuptial event transpired at Walter Hill, Tenn., on the 33 inst. in which one of Hopkinsville's most popular and worthy young men was a participant. Mr. W. H. Faxon was united in marriage to Miss Katie N. Adkerson, of the above mentioned place, and they returned to this city shortly afterwards, and are now boarding at Dr. W. G. Wheeler's.

Mr. Faxon is connected with the warehouse firm of Wheeler, Mills & Co., and is a young gentleman of manly qualities and sterling worth.

He is a nephew of the author of "Beautiful Snow," one of the richest and rarest poetical gems ever written. His bride is a sister of Miss Sallie M. Adkerson, who is lady principal of one of the colleges in this city, and she is a young lady, charming in manners, lovely in person and cultivated in mind. The young couple have our kindest and most sincere wishes for future happiness, and we congratulate, not only Mr. Faxon, upon having secured so estimable a companion, but also the social circles of the city upon the acquisition of so lovely a factor.

Mail Robbery.

For the second time in about a year the Lafayette mail was robbed last Thursday about five miles south of the city. The carrier was a colored man named Solomon Snorton, who is the sub contractor on the Lafayette route. As he was returning to the city about 7 o'clock in the evening he was halted by a man with a gun and forced to surrender the mail bag. He was on horseback and the robber was standing by the roadside, and had placed rails across the road to stop him. Snorton came on to town and got here about 9 o'clock. The robbery was committed in almost the same spot that the same thing was done about this time last year The mail sack was searched for and found in the woods close by the next morning. It had been cut open and rifled, but 2 of the 8 registered letters had been overlooked by the thief. Snorton had a good reputation in Todd county, where he lived until recently, and his statement is no doubt a true version of the affair.

The department should have a detective to investigate the matter, and if possible ferret out the guilty party.

Struck by a Blizzard.

On Wednesday evening late a shooting affair was reported to the police, in which a man named J. A. Ritch had been severely peppered in the face with bird shot, by Jos Blizzard. Chief Higgerstaff started out to arrest Blizzard, upon a warrant sworn out, and met him coming to the police headquarters. The shooting occurred near the Eugene Mills, in the eastern suburbs, and the facts as brought out at the examining trial were about as follows:

Ritch and Blizzard lived in houses adjoining each other, and a few days before their families had a general family row. Blizzard stated publicly that he intended to whip Ritch if he had to lay in jail six months. About dusk it seems that both the parties were in their houses, and Ritch put his head out of his door, and Blizzard walked out into the yard and seeing him blazed away. Blizzard was allowed to argue his own case at the trial and stated that Ritch snapped a gun at him before he fired. The case was tried before Judge Brasher Friday, and Blizzard was held till circuit court under a bond of $200, for maliciously shooting with intent to kill. He could not give bail and is in jail. Ritch was badly peppered but he is not hurt much. Dr. Seargent picked out the shot and Ritch was able to attend the trial. The row seems to have been brought on originally by the female members of the families.

Accident at Earlington.

A switchman named H. K. Dancey was badly hurt by the cars at Earlington last Thursday. He fell while coupling cars and had one arm cut off and a leg badly bruised. Dr Seargent, of this city, went down and with the assistance of local physicians, amputated the stump of the arm and dressed his other wounds. The wounds are not considered necessarily fatal and Dancey will probably recover.

Nashville Telegraph College

THE ONLY COLLEGE IN THE SOUTH.

The only College that has regular lines running from the College to give students practical Man work.

SPECIAL SUMMER RATES.

In order to convince the public that Telegraphing is and will continue to be successfully taught we have fixed our rates for the summer as follows; Payable in instalments monthly in advance:

First Month $20. Second Month $10 Third Month $10. Fourth Month $10.

Should the student not be proficient at the expiration of the 3rd or 4th months he or she is in no case required to pay over the $50 as in the instalments above stated; but there is no reason why a student should not become proficient in that time at the furthest, with the assistance of a regular, an old practical operator, in both Railroad and Commercial business. We have in connection with our College one fine completed and working daily, and in a few days will have completed nine lines to different parts of the city, thereby giving our students the advantage of practical line work, and with all these superior facilities and the simplicity of Telegraphing. No student should be longer than 4 months learning the business. We have adopted this plan in order to eliminate our students and cause them to push themselves and get through quicker than they would, perhaps by adopting other plans and the student save money. There is a constant demand for operators, both in our immediate vicinity and our work.

COLLEGE OPEN DAY AND NIGHT, THE YEAR AROUND.

Those living out of the city who desire to learn can obtain board at low figures close to the College. For further information address

Hand-Shaking.

Hand-shaking is British. The longer in society, in his glass of fashion, enumerates its various styles is indicative of character. These are aggressive, supercilious, lymphatic, imperative, suspicious, sympathetic, emotional, but none of these are required by etiquette. Still to shake, or rather take or give a hand, in more conventional greeting, is a cultivated art society. A gentleman can not take a lady's hand unless she offer it, and an American authority on etiquette reminds him that he must not "pinch or retain it."

A young lady must not offer her fist, or shake that given her, unless she is the gentleman's friend. A lady should always rise to give her hand, and in her own home she should always offer it in greeting strangers and friends alike. In the ball room, however, hand shaking is not the thing. It is also the privilege of the superior to be the first to proffer the hand: in these progressive times a nod is considered sufficient, except in conservative Virginia and the south generally where family traditions of old, courtly and kind obtain.

CAUSE FOR APPREHENSION.

Why Mysterious Physical Troubles Arouse Special Dread—A Professional Experience.

Few things give more pain than dread or apprehension. Most people are able to face apparent danger heroically, but the sudden and unexpected coming of some indefinite calamity very naturally strikes terror in even the bravest. For this reason lightning and tornadoes are considered terrible; their coming and going are so sudden, unannounced and unknown. For this same reason an unknown disease, some poison in the blood, some malady that is gradually undermining the life, is specially dreaded by all thinking people. And, indeed, there are good reasons for such dread, for modern science has discovered that some virulent disorders show the least signs in their beginnings, while they have the worst possible symptoms. We know of many persons who have dull and uncertain pains in various portions of the body, who are unfortunately tired one day and apparently well the next; who have an enormous appetite at times and a loathing of food soon thereafter. Such persons are really in a dangerous condition, even though they may not realize it. The following statement of a most prominent physician, who has had unusual opportunities for investigation in so striking and important a manner that it will be read with interest by all:

O. ANDERSON, M. D., Superintendent.
CINCINNATI, O., Dec. 2, 1882.

Messrs Editors:

I have, during my professional career of many years' practice, treated a large number of various disorders, of which, perhaps none have given me more trouble than the mysterious disease known as acute nephritis; and while it may seem strange, it is, nevertheless, true, that the physician is generally greatly annoyed by this mysterious trouble, especially when the case is of hereditary origin. It is doubtless, the first stage of the well known, but terrible Bright's disease, as the kidneys contain large quantities of albumen; and while children and young people are especially liable to its attack, it is prevalent with all classes, and usually continues until late in life.

One obstinate case which came under my observation, was that of a fireman of this city who applied to me for treatment. The case was diagnosed parenchymatous nephritis. The man was twenty-four years of age; plethoric and light complected. He stated that he had suffered from ordinary troubles from childhood, and that he had "doctored" a hundred times, each time improving somewhat after which, in a short while, he would relapse into his former state of misery. I prescribed the usual therapeutics known to the profession with the same result that my colleagues had obtained. He got better for a while and then worse again; in fact, so bad that he had to lay off for some time. He suffered intense pain; so much that I confess I had to resort to hypodermic injections of morphia. My druggist who knew how disgusted I was with the case, although not willing to desert the man, advised me to try a remedy from which he (the druggist) himself, had derived great benefit. As a drowning man catches a straw, I prescribed this remedy, not letting my patient, however, know what I was giving him; and, although not a believer in nor a patron of "patent medicines," I must confess that after my fireman had taken one bottle he grew much better. I made him continue its use for a period of two months, with the most gratifying results; it really worked wonders and he owes his cure and present perfect health solely to the remarkable power of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, the remedy which I prescribed and he used.

Since the recovery of the man above mentioned, I have given considerable thought to the subject of acute nephritis, or kidney difficulty, and I find that its manifestations are most remarkable. It often appears without any special symptoms of its own, or possible as a sequel to some other disease. It may be a sequel to scarlatina, diphtheria, and other illness, and even arise from pregnancy. The first symptoms frequently show themselves in the form of high, fierce and intense pains in the lumber region, "the small of the back," troubles some micturitions and frequent changes in the color of the urine which at time diminishes perceptibly. If the urine is entirely suppressed, the case, probably, will terminate fatally in a very few days. Dropsy is a consequence of the suppression of urine, and the severeness of it is governed by the proportion of retention. The nervous system becomes prostrated with subsequent convulsions and irregular circulation of the blood, which in my estimation, eventually, might cause a diseased heart to give out. As I have remarked, in many kidney diseases—yes, even in Bright's disease itself—there is no perceptible pain in the back, and these troubles often assert themselves in various symptoms—for instance, in troublesome diarrhoea, blood poison, impaired eyesight, nausea, loss of appetite, disordered digestion, loss of consciousness, husky voice and many other complaints too numerous to mention. Indeed thousands of people are suffering from the first stages of Bright's disease to-day, and they do not know it.

In conclusion, I would like to state that I have since my success with the fireman, repeatedly prescribed Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and if my professional brethren could only be brought so far as to overcome their prejudice against proprietary medicines they would, undoubtedly, find themselves recompensed for their supposed sacrifice of liberty, as well as by the great benefits that would accrue to the world.

Most sincerely,
O. ANDERSON, M. D.,
Superintendent.

Washington Irving's Crayon Papers.

This very prince in the realm of letters is at last able to enter the homes of ordinary mortals. Until lately his inimitable productions have been practically inaccessible on account of their high cost. The recent expiration of copyright has freed them from the short sighted monopoly which has preferred to harvest the dollars of the thousands rather than the dimes of the millions of his countrymen who take delight in his memory. The very beautiful Elzevir edition of his Crayon Papers, with a brilliant sketch of the Life of Irving by the poet, R. H. Stoddard, making a volume of over 350 pages, is just issued and the publisher, with a view to securing promptly the immense sale that is necessary to make the low price possible, offers to send, if ordered at once, a specimen copy, in neat cloth binding to any address, for the nominal price of 35 cents, or in half Russia binding for 45 cents. Irving's complete works are offered for prices ranging from less than $6 00 upwards. The cheapest edition until lately cost over $30. The publisher will send specimen pages free to any one upon request. JOHN B. ALDEN, Publisher, 18 Vesey Street, New York.

EDWARD WILDER'S
Never fails to cure Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, Colic and Flux. It will Cure Costiveness. It is a safe Anti-bilious Alterative and Mild and Delightful Invigorant for Delicate Women, a powerful reconstructive after the system has been debilitated and reduced by sickness, an excellent appetizer, gives tone to the digestive organs, prevents Malaria, braces up the system, strengthens the portal circulation and clears the whole animal economy from the seeds of disease. The slightest attack of fever may be a prelude to the worst, and the remedy that would conquer it whilst it is yet in its commencement, may be of no value when it is at its full development. Particularly is this the case with persons around whom the pestiferous influence of Malaria clings in the form of Dumb Chills, Bowel Ague, Pelaful Spleen, and Weak Stomach.
For the Cure of all the above Diseases this preparation stands unrivaled, and its good and permanent effects are attested by thousands, and it is recommended alike by the ablest medical men and the ministry.
TRY IT, all you that are afflicted, and be convinced of its wonderful power and beneficial effects.
